What is Psychology?

Psychology is like exploring the inner world of our minds. It's about understanding how we think, feel, and behave. It is a toolbox filled with different lenses to understand people.

How we learn, remember, and even forget things, why do we feel angry, why we feel sad, how we interact with others, why do we form friendships and so on. From how babies learn to talk to why people become successful in their careers. Psychology uses experiments, observation, and even talking to people to gather information.
